The Republican national commit-

The Republican national committee and cabinet officials, including Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in addition to Senator Dillingham, the dean of the Vermont delegation, desired the choice of Whitehill.

The Waterbury man had connections with the President and the national committee before and following the nomination of Harding. He has done yeoman service in talking money for the committee, it is big money for the committer, it is stated. In times back he was associated in Washington with Mr. Dillingham, so it came about that the majority of the Vermont delegation found themselves opposing the inevitable when they tried to get inevitable when they tried to get Cushing named instead of Whitehill And so a noti city of the tupos Pauloing men decided, it is stated, that a three to one delegation vote for Coshing would only get the delegation in wrong with the administration and accomplish mothing, switched to Whitehill for the for-mality of the thing. The President has the power of appointment entirely in his hands. Had the delegation been solid for a candidate other than Whitehill it is possible that he would have listened to their wishes. REBUILDING EAST POLAND.

Reconstruction Work Progresses Rapidly, Says Bureau in U. S.

Post-war reconstruction work under supervision of the Polish government is rapidly advancing in the Eastern Fravinces of Poland, which suffered from the different campaigns in the World War and from the Bolshevist attacks of 1910-1920. Other parts of Poland less everly affected by the war have been quick to aid the people of the eastern districts.

Shortage of railways. One of the important features of the work now being done is the tapping by railway of areas which have heretofore been accessible only to borse-drawn vehicles.

The lack of houses in some regions has compelled the repatriates to find temporary lodgings with other families, reserved and the people of the eastern districts.

New York Times.

From Poznania there were sent from (0,000 to 70,000 carloads of potatoes, onts, barley and other seeds, states the Polish Bureau of Information in the United States. The government, aside from the actual supervision of reconstruction work, has set aside funds for the use of repatriates in restocking their devastated lands.

The relative depletion of the live stock and of the agricultural implements has made the work of rehabilitation difficult. In some districts there are at present less than one-teneh as many horses as there were in 1914. Another handicap suffered by the eastern provinces is the shortage of railways. One of the im-portant features of the work now being
